

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- A method for information processing and an information-processing client are disclosed. The information-processing client is configured to access a server and to display first information returned by the server and containing a link to
- 5 second information. The client is also configured to check automatically a specific property of the second information by making an enquiry concerning the second information and by displaying third information on the specific property of the second information.